All proceeds to support a cycling program for under-privileged youth in metro Atlanta

Rahsaan Bahati of the Bahati Foundation

While growing up in Compton CA, he was introduced to cycling through an after school program at the age of 12. Through that program he went to Kenosha, WI and competed at the Junior Nationals, just six months later. Incredibly, he brought home 4 medals that year and finished his junior career with over 80 victories and was picked for the U.S National Team for 5 consecutive years. Understanding the importance of education, he graduated from Indiana University. As a US National Criterium champion, he is one of the leading cyclist's in the US that competes both domestically and internationally. After his career with Rock Racing, Rahsaan started Bahati Racing and created the Bahati Foundation as a way to encourage youth to be positive about life, using the sport of cycling and his own life story to motivate young people to reach for their goals.
